Otaru walking trails recommended by Otaru Annainin

Places You Want to Visit, Shrines & Temples Course

Your guides on this course

"Otaru Annainin (guide)" Meister Mr. Tsuchiyama

After walking the recommended Shrines and Temples Course, how about extending your walk by going a little further to the Otaru Museum to learn about the history of the railroad that opened in order to transport coal and to the Bank of Japan Otaru Museum where you can find out about the history of Otaru's rapid development through shipping and finance.

"Otaru Annainin (guide)" Meister Mr. Narita

Visit peaceful shrines and temples while enjoying the mountain views of Otaru. I highly recommend the shortcut through the hills above National Route 5 from Tenjoji Temple to Sumiyoshi Shrine and the view overlooking the port after climbing the hill at Gohyaku Rakan Soenji Temple. It is naturally a dieting and trekking course. Feel free to stop by a mochi shop if you get hungry. This is somewhat different from your average course.

Otaru contributed greatly to the development, history, culture and economy of Hokkaido. A large number of people migrated to Otaru seeking work. Many shrines and temples were built as the people who played an active role in Otaru wanted to pray for prosperity, commemorate their hometown and honor their ancestors. The shrines and temples each have their own unique characteristics. Additionally, the mansions built by people who played an active role in Otaru and historic buildings remain to this day.

Recommended Spots [Access Information]

City Line Bus

Buses run from Otaru Station Terminal in all directions on over 20 routes, with many bus stops, making it a very convenient means of transportation.

To go to spot ③ board the bus bound for "24 Otaru Ekimae" (weekdays only) and get off at "Kitagasmae" and to go to spots ④~⑥ board the bus bound for "2 Sakuramachi", "3 Shinko 2 Chome", or "6 Boyodai" from the bus stop in front of Nagasakiya.

There are also buses headed from Otaru Canal Terminal to Mt. Tenguyama and Shukutsu. There is also a reasonable one day pass for the city tour.

Contact : Chuo Bus Otaru Station Terminal ☎ +81-134-25-3333

As the mansions are spread around a large area, we recommend using public transportation when taking the Shrines & Temples Course.

MAP ① Ryugu Shrine

(established in its present location in 1876)

Takeaki Enomoto, who was active as a Hokkaido pioneer, erected the shrine in honor of Emperor Kanmu at the sacred site that used to be an Ainu festival site. The "Ryuseito" sword made from a meteorite and a handwritten plaque or "Hokkai Chingo" are dedicated. The "Ryujin (Dragon God) Statue" carved with a single sword inside the shrine and bronze statue of Takeaki on the grounds of the shrine are believed to bring blessings for success in life, increased fortune, and maritime safety. In 2026, it will be 150 years since it was first enshrined.

- TEL : +81-134-22-7772

Fun confectionery fact

Long-established confectionery shops with connections to the ports of call of the kitamae-bune trading ships

One feature of the long-established confectionery shops of Otaru is that many of them have connections to the former ports of call of the kitamae-bune trading ships. People who came to Otaru via the Umi no Kaido (Highway of the Sea) established by the kitamae-bune trading ships made use of the wheat, sugar and other ingredients brought from various parts of the country, and a unique Otaru confectionery culture blossomed, producing Japanese and Western sweets, mochi and other treats.

- 1 Niikuraya
- 2 Amato
- 3 Kagetsudo
- 4 Midoriya

Founded by a native of Kanazawa. The hanazono dango, which first appeared in the early Showa period (1926-1989), is still a specialty of Otaru.

Founded by a native of Kaga. The cream zenzai, which first appeared in the 1960s, is still very popular today.

The original Kagetsudo was founded in Shibata in 1853 by Sugimoto Kagetsudo. The shop name is still used today.

This is the only senbei and arare shop in Otaru. They also carry Niigata's famous sasa dango.

Recommended Mansion

MAP A Former Endoh Residence (Current : Rissho Koseikai Otaru Church)

Matabei Endoh accumulated his fortune as a seafood wholesaler and built this mansion in 1902. At first glance, the gate and wall are those of a samurai residence.

- Opening period: Open to the general public for a limited time.
- Entrance Fee: Free ○Address : 1-9-4 Tomioka
- TEL : +81-134-23-7266 (Rissho Koseikai Otaru Church)

MAP B Otaru Civic Auditorium, Noh Stage (former Otaru district meeting hall and former Okazaki Noh Stage)

The Auditorium was built by donation of maritime traffic merchant Fujiyama Yokichi in 1911, as accommodation for the Crown Prince (later Taisho Emperor). The Noh stage was built by Ken Okazaki, who made a fortune as a general goods merchant, in 1926, in the courtyard of his family residence in Irifune-cho. The stage was donated to Otaru city in 1954, and it was moved to the current location when the Auditorium was relocated in 1961.

- Opening period: The Noh theater will be open to the public from late May to mid-September.
